

Schools Project: Art Trail - Summer Festival 2015

A locality-wide schools art project that will lead up to a full pop-up show at a 'mystery venue' during the festival fortnight, with satellite 'sample shows' being showcased in the Leconfield Hall and St Mary's Church throughout the duration of the July festival. This event is partnered with and co-funded by the local branch of NADFAS who are also providing in-kind support by liaising with the 14 participating schools and by stewarding over the period of the actual exhibition

The project will be themed around the family play due to be presented at the 2015 Petworth Festival, The Sorcerer's Apprentice. Art co-ordinators from the participating schools will be invited to attend an in-service day led by an artist to be confirmed. Prior to the project starting all participating schools will then be asked to contribute either individual pieces of art or larger murals for presentation at the pop up venue. Details of this venue will be withheld until an announcement is made on line one week prior to the show opening. The idea here is to excite the participating schools to chat about the project on line and to speculate where the show will be and – ultimately – to attend.
